Possible reasons why the ads of printbrokering.co.uk haven't been found:

1. The website does not advertise for one of the keywords that we monitor. The keywords that we monitor represent the vast majority of all searches that are done every month. Details can be found below.

2. The website was not listed when we checked the keyword. If the website did not run ads for the keyword when we checked it, the ad cannot be found in the analysis. If it is listed when we recheck the keyword then the ad will be displayed in the Google Ads Profiler.

3. Of course, it is also likely that the domain does not advertise on Google Ads.

Although the Google Ads Profiler shows most of the ads that a website runs, it does not show every single ad or ranking of a site. Use the Google Ads Profiler to get new ideas for your own campaigns.

Which keywords do we monitor?

We monitor the rankings and ads for millions of popular keywords. The top 1,000 keywords account for 10.6% of all searches, and every fifth search is for one of the most popular 10,000 keywords. 20-25% of all queries have never been searched before. This means that any further keyword after the top 10,000 ones belongs to the "long tail." Long tail keywords are very specific keywords that aren't searched very often.

The millions of keywords that we check represent the vast majority of the keywords that are regularly searched on Google and that regularly deliver the most visitors:

- A: The keywords that we check. These keywords have many searches each month. They account for the vast majority of visitors that search engines send to websites.

- B: These are keywords with a very low search volume. We do not check these keywords as they aren't searched for very often. These keywords do not deliver a significant amount of visitors.
